"Give is a song!" the soldiers cried,
The ou er trenches guarting.
When the heated guns of the camps allied
Grew weary of pomparding. The dark Recan, in silent scoff, 1 Lay, grim and threatening, under:
And the tawny mound of the Malakoff
No lunger beliefed its thunder.

There was a pause. A guardsman said:
"We: torm the forts to-morrow;
Sing whild we may, another day
Will bring enough of sorrow." They lay along the battery's side,

Below the smeking tannon:
Brave her ris, from Severn and from Clyde,
And from the banks of Snannon. They sang of love, and not of fame Forgo was Britain's glory: Each rea precalled a different name,

Voice af er voice caught up the song, Until ste tender passion Rose like an authem, rich and strong,-Their patt'e-eve confession Dear gir, her name he dared not sheak,

But al sang "Annie Laurie."

TON FON ECONOMIZING The times are dul rather than hard but they are very dull. Years, have lisse since there was so had a season, and a might save been expected that a season market by the retarn of the Prince of Wales would have been one of more than usual briginey. In every direction there are signs that the word is economizing, and has less not eyt ian it used to have for luxuty and recre, tion. Pictures do not fetch their old prices, houses will not let, the sepry of horses exceed the demand, and servan's cannot and that I one of should be so far less rich as to have begin to make its economies evident means much in the current history of the country. The wealth of the provinces is acured into condon, and when London shows the pressure of dull times there can be no doubt that times are very dull throughout England. This not that any great calamity is weighing on the country, but a number of small acverse causes have produced a large infavorable result. We are not in the midst of a commercial crisis, and if tinde is mere limited, it is souncer fran it used to be. Leop e are not so much ruine las hit, and the number of peop e who have been lave been sustained by the horrers of foreign bonds, and many who have been accu tomed to ive merrily on precarious oncomes have found their resources suddenly at an one. But this is an element in the general aggregate of injecuniosity the importance of which may be easi v exaggerated. Jondon is not much affelied by the miseries of Tur and Peruvian bord to d ers, and it is not until the nome trade and home revenues are a ecter that economy becomes transparent. is because stracy beoble are suffering that andon shows signs of eistifess.-

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN'S TACT.

The London Court Journal denies that the American custom of wearing citizen's c otaes at court hat, any better origin than accident. says that the fact that the American Minister a ways appears at court in plain z othest instead of in the usua regulation costume is due, not to the republican squeamishness of Benjamin Frank in, as is generally supposed, but to the laziness of Benjamin Frank in stailor. Saic tailor disappointed Franklin in the very gorgeous court cress ie had ordered, and he had no a ternative but to appear in ordinary clothes. Te was sarewe enough to make a very great merit of what was to him a very unpleasant necessity. The fame of the republican's courage rang out through the world, and from that time downware American Ministers have caimer as a privilege what was originally a very disagreeable accident.
